

Tour the spiritual power vortexes that bring good fortune

The Kaiun Road Tomikuji / Takarakuji Kigan - Tomikuji Tosen Mairi is a walking trail approximately 3km long, named after a street that is supposed to bring wealth and the lucky place-name.

⑤ Tomiku Shrine
It is believed that touching the ball on which the foo dog, a rare example in Japan, stands would bring fertility and family prosperity and fulfil prayers. It is thought to have a great effect on boosting one's luck in lotteries.

Monjusenji Temple
The temple is known as one of the three Monju temples in Japan. Drinking the "Water of Wisdom" gushing from the rocks is said to make you intelligent.

④ Mankoji Temple
The family temple of Tadashige Tomiku, the lord of Tomiku Castle. Rumor has it that if you place a losing lottery ticket on the "Nemmu monument" and offer a prayer, you will win the next lottery.

Tomiku Castle Ruins
The castle was built in 1261. It was besieged in an attack by an army led by Josui Kuroda. Musashi Miyamoto joined the Kuroda Cavalries in the battle and is said to have had his leg pierced by a spear as he tried to climb over a wall.

③ Negai Bridge / Kanai Bridge
Crossing the bridge while making a wish is said to make your wish come true.

② Money-ki-Neko Park
Try your luck here first. Insert a stone in the hole of the Money-ki-Neko statue to get your fortunes read.

① Tomiku Kaiun Bridge
The unique bridge is in the shape of a treasure ship. Stand on the bridge and feel like one of the seven gods of goof fortune.

Port of Tomiku
The port prospered with maritime trade in the olden days. Kunisaki silver scabbard fish and Kunisaki Hime octopus are harvested at the port.
